

As is my understanding, the FCC is responsible to insure the public interest is served by all forms of media and communications under its control. In light of this, granting the Consumer Banking Association's petition would be a gross violation of the public interest and a clear statement the FCC does not serve the public at all. The number 1 consumer complaint in the state of Wisconsin is telemarketing. To grant this petition would, in my opinion, weaken the position of the FCC. If this petition was granted, and I was an entity under the control of the FCC, I would be obligated to challenge every rule and regulation as it pertains to public interest and license granting. Thank you for your time.
